- If the reading has you intrigued, you might want to buy it from an independent bookstore (see the button on the website to find one local to you) and get stuck into the whole book.

Questions to Consider:

- Chuang Tzŭ describes the heart as 'the organ of thought'. He asks the reader whether the heart should be 'allowed to take charge of our lives'. What are your thoughts?
- What connections can you make from Chuang Tzŭ's writing in 300BC to modern day society?
- What 'false dichotomies' have you had / do you want to unlearn in life?
- How does the text explore otherness and selfhood?
